

Vocabulary

linear	using lines and outlines transpose	transfer, exchange, move modify	to make partial or minor changes adapt	alter, adjust, modify, change reference	mentioning or alluding to something, (in art) to obviously refer to another artist's work response	to react or reply to a stimulus or another artist's work resist	a way of dyeing fabric by covering some areas so they do not take on the colour natural form	(in art) an object in its original form: not altered or manipulated batik	an Indonesian technique of wax-resist dyeing made by drawing dots and line of the resist with a spouted tool called a tjanting

These are examples of reduction printing - after you have printed the first colour, you 'reduce' (or cut away at) the block print and print over the first print (overlaying). Using this technique, your prints can have as many colours as you want!

Examples of press prints.

As a starting point, we will be developing some analytical studies of natural form. We will use a viewfinder to 'zoom in' on specific areas.

'Poppy' by Chinwe Chukwuogo-Roy mono-printing

a tjanting

